A UNIQUE PLACE FOR YOUR NEXT RETREAT, CONFERENCE, OR EVENT

Nestled in the pastoral tranquility of the Angeles National Forest, The Painted Turtle's stunning 173-acre site is the perfect venue for your next corporate, school, religious, or community experience. Designed by the same architectural firm that created the world-renowned Getty Center in Los Angeles, we have the capacity to offer a unique and memorable experience to groups from 10 to 2,500+. Our state-of-the-art facilities and wide-open spaces provide an inspiring environment in which to gather, and all site rental fees will help support The Painted Turtle's mission to provide transformative camp experiences to children with serious illnesses at no cost to their families.*

We are located a short 1.5-hour drive from Los Angeles in the northeast corner of Los Angeles County in the town of Lake Hughes. Reeds, lakes, and meadows shape the camp's grounds, and manzanita-covered hillsides frame the southern border. Guests have access to a variety of indoor and outdoor spaces, overnight accommodations for 200+, and a host of onsite recreational and creative activities for team building, exploration, and pure enjoyment.

Our team will work with you to customize an experience to meet your needs.
We cater to the following types of events:

- Corporate Meetings, Conferences and Events
- University and School Retreats and Workshops
- Religious Organization Retreats and Camps
- Sports and Outdoor Education Programs
- Private and Community Events
- Other Camps
