A 173-acre cinematic backlot in the Angeles National Forest — 90 minutes from Hollywood.

The Painted Turtle offers filmmakers, photographers, and production teams exclusive access to one of Southern California's most versatile shooting locations — lakefront docks, forested and paved roads, open chaparral, a working equestrian center, and rustic cabins, all on one secured, private property.

On One Backlot

- 173 gated, fully private production acres
- Lakefront, forest/paved roads, & chaparral hillsides
- Equestrian barn, clinical set & dining hall
- Regulation-size basketball court & gymnasium
- Crew parking, power, Wi-Fi & cell service on site
- Overnight lodging for cast and crew

"Filming at The Painted Turtle was a dream! We got all the shots we needed in one place."
