The Courage to Be a Kid

“They understood that kids need to feel like kids and be silly, have tons of fun, and not have to worry about their condition.”

— Jackie Corral, Camper Parent

Our Corral Family story begins with the blessing of two beautiful boys—two sweet, happy, athletic, crazy boys, both of whom have severe hemophilia A. We did not have a family history, so we were caught off guard when our oldest son, Jackson, was diagnosed at 6 months old. We were told he would never play sports, that his life would be limited, and that we would have to be so careful with him.

When Jackson was 19 months old, we (surprise!) found out we were expecting another child. As it turned out, it was another beautiful son with severe hemophilia A. Is this the way I would have planned my life or my sons’? Definitely not. But Jameson entered our lives and we couldn’t fathom a day without him.

I am always close by for the boys in case they need me to rush over and infuse. With two boys, things like a hip joint bleed or a shattered arm from falling off a slide can be all too common. I’m always doing a quick tally in my head when I drop them off at school. On infusion days, I know they are at 100%. But the next day they are more at 25%, and that’s when the worry begins to creep in. Infusing both boys every other morning and every time there is an injury or bleed doesn’t give Mom much of a break or time away, and I’m pretty much never “off-duty” (mentally at least).

The Painted Turtle gave us something I didn’t think we would ever have until the boys were much older and self-sufficient with infusing. From the moment we arrived at The Painted Turtle, we were greeted with the brightest smiles and most energetic group of camp counselors. The environment was joyful, uplifting, clean, safe, and very secure. They made us feel so relaxed and confident that they understood hemophilia and had everything handled. They also understood that kids need to feel like kids and be silly, have tons of fun, and not have to worry about their condition. I couldn’t believe how many amazing activities they had planned and how excited the counselors were to be there with our kids!

Jackson and Jameson got to meet other kids who have their same medical condition, which was huge for them. They didn’t know any other boys their age with hemophilia, and this was a big motivator for me to encourage them to go! When we came to pick them up on Sunday after five nights away, the longest we had been apart since birth for either of them, they didn’t want to leave! They both immediately told me they never got homesick, not once! This is amazing and a true testament to how wonderful this camp is. We are all looking forward to next year!

Healing from the Heart

“Be patient with people—if I could express that to the world, I would.”

— Jay Gilbert, Nurse Volunteer

Jay Gilbert loves being a nurse. Working at a middle school in Atlanta, Jay is known by students and colleagues as the Rapping Nurse. During the past four summers, Jay has brought his energy and enthusiasm to The Painted Turtle as a nurse volunteer, providing care, fun, and laughter to campers in the Well Shell. We sat down with Jay to learn what it is about Camp that keeps him coming back year after year.

What makes The Painted Turtle so special?

There’s a lot of kids who look forward to coming to this camp for that one week out of the year just to be loved and included and treated equally. Unfortunately, outside of Camp, everyone is not treated equally, but at Camp we’re all the same. There’s a young man who is a phenomenal pianist, phenomenal. And he’s only fourteen. He’s going to go out there and change the world. We had a young lady who wrote a book. She’s on a breathing machine and she has a lot of complications, but she wrote a book about The Painted Turtle. There’s so many kids that have so many great talents that are not normally seen because of their disabilities, but they know there are people here who really care about them. Camp does so much for them.

What’s one of your favorite memories of camp?

There’s a camper who had to get enemas last year. We wanted to keep him company and make it entertaining, so we got a bunch of wigs and me and a few of the other volunteers made a song called “Poop, There It Is,” and we performed it for him live. We played a bunch of music and had a great time! It was epic. We called it our 1st Annual Poop Party. I actually came back this year because of that camper. When he got out of the car and saw me, he started telling me how much he missed me and that he still had “poop parties” at home. That kind of made coming back all worthwhile, knowing he’s OK.

What’s one thing you wish others knew about children with serious medical conditions?

At the end of the day we’re all the same. Some people just take a little more time to do some things. Be patient with people—if I could express that to the world, I would. Just seeing these kids and what they go through it’s like, “Wow, you go through a lot, you’re really strong!” Don’t judge a book by its cover.

The Joy of Helping Others

“These amazing volunteers have created pure joy and precious memories, and we are so grateful to each and every one of them!”

— Camper Parent

PUN

PUN believes in Magic, especially “Camp Magic” for children who have life-threatening and chronic illnesses. Mark (affectionately known as “PUN” because of his clever wordplay and jokes) claims only to do tricks, while the Camp and the children do the real magic. He has made an indelible mark on all of us with long-standing programs like Fun with PUN: games, magic tricks, and bringing pure joy to campers and family members, staff and volunteers. PUN has volunteered more than 11,000 hours during hundreds of programs that The Painted Turtle has offered, including week-long summer sessions, family weekends, and countless visits to hospitals across California. We want to give a heartfelt thank you to PUN for being an integral ingredient to create the magic that is Camp.

Pops and Sherry Immel

Pops and Sherry Immel have been a part of The Painted Turtle family long before the first campers arrived. As residents of the Lake Hughes area, Pops and Sherry began volunteering when the camp broke ground in 2003, helping wherever they could to get The Painted Turtle ready to receive its first set of campers. Today, Sherry is known as the Camp Photographer, catching all the fun and magic that takes place each session at Camp, while Pops helps campers explore their creative expression through the woodworking program. Although they are best known for their specialties, their impact has reached far beyond photography and woodshop and has brightened every aspect of Camp. The Painted Turtle is immensely grateful for the love, energy, and dedication Pops and Sherry have given during their combined 50,000 volunteer hours and continue to give to Camp. Thank you, Pops and Sherry, for always exemplifying the true meaning of Camp Spirit.

Thanks to an endowment gift from the Delta Zeta Sorority, the spirit of volunteerism at The Painted Turtle will continue for generations to come.

“You expect to donate your time when you volunteer, but you would never expect to come out of the experience with a different outlook on life.”

— Delta Zeta Sorority Volunteer

Riding for a Reason

“It’s an important mission to support because it changed my life and I know it would impact others as well.”

— Colin Hanock, Volunteer/Former Camp Counselor

Colin Hanock is a Painted Turtle volunteer, former summer counselor, current student at the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine, and an Officer in the US Air Force. In 2018, Colin biked 2,000 miles from Vancouver to San Diego, raising over $20,000 for The Painted Turtle to send eight kids to Camp. He shared with us how Camp gave him the strength to complete this incredible challenge.

What inspired you to take on the challenge to fundraise for The Painted Turtle?

I was applying for medical school in the summer of 2017. It’s a big process to apply. I started early and was accepted sooner than anticipated, so I had ten months of free time and didn’t know what to do with it. Then it dawned on me—I had joked once that I loved The Painted Turtle so much I was willing to ride my bike down the entire coast of California to raise money for Camp. Forget the fact that I didn’t even own a bike at the time. I’ve witnessed children far younger do things much more daunting than I have. So why couldn’t I do something big and bold?

Your goal was to raise $20,000 to send eight kids to Camp and you surpassed it! How did you approach the fundraising aspect of your ride?

When I commit to a goal I try not to overthink it—I just put it into very simple steps. I never really fundraised before but I thought, “OK, I know a ton of people. I have 600 people in my cell phone and if I call each of them to say ‘I’m going to ride my bike 2,000 miles down the Pacific coast to raise awareness and send kids to Camp, can I ask you for $20 to make these children’s dreams come true?’” In my head, you can’t say no to that. I called and texted every person in my cell phone and raised over $20,000.

What’s one thing you want others to know who are interested in getting involved with Camp?

You can’t assume anything, especially of people with invisible illnesses and conditions. The kids at The Painted Turtle are just like the kids in your life—there’s literally no difference. All they want to do is fool around, not eat their veggies, and not go to bed on time. I was nervous going into The Painted Turtle for the first time. I had never worked with children, let alone children living with serious medical conditions. But I went and helped them to have a great experience. I was able to help build them up. It’s a beautiful symphony the way everyone works together. It’s an important mission to support because it changed my life and I know it would impact others as well.
